

What a Complete Registration Management System Looks Like

Private and public classes

Internal classes like employee training and external programs such as community outreach classes can use the same account. They can maintain separate identities and adapt functionality for their unique needs.

Healthcare data security

Learning Stream takes significant steps to protect Personally Identifiable Information. The software has multiple security redundancies, and we never share registrant data with other organizations or individuals.

Payment security

As a PCI-compliant system, Learning Stream integrates with more than a dozen secure payment processing gateways. Each program within your organization can funnel payments directly into its own account.

CME and CNE tracking

Track continuing education credits of various types by class, print transcripts, export summary reports and much more. Students can access their own information through a secure portal.

Evaluations

Design customized evaluations, weight-score questions and even tie completion to an objective (e.g., receiving a certificate of completion) to improve participation.

Complex fee scenarios

Apply fees based on registration type and date, multi-class and student discounts, question responses and more.

Oh, there is so much more →

Integration
Via a simple API process, extract key registration data such as name, registration, and payment status, and make available to other systems such as your LMS.

Single Sign-on
Via remote authentication, redirect registrants to secure, remote web pages hosted on your website to validate log-in credentials.

Flexible Registration Forms
Ask any questions you need to collect key demographic data and fees.

Responsive pages
The pages you design in Learning Stream automatically re-size to fit any mobile device, including smart phones and tablets.

Registration imports
Bulk import registration data and add to a current class or import and simultaneously create a new class.

Robust reporting
Track and export data pertaining to registrant listings, registration question responses, financials and other registrant information and trends.

Learning Stream streamlines the connection between you and your learners with robust registration management software.

Learning Stream wants to make your registration management process as efficient as possible. That means a ton of listening on our part to ensure we understand your unique needs and how best to apply Learning Stream's robust functionality.

We offer the most feature-rich solution for healthcare programs—both internal and external—so we train new users, guide them through the setup process, and even perform an audit before the first event goes live. We continue to support customers through their experience with Learning Stream, with live support that responds quickly.

We encourage customer feedback – it's how we built and improved our software over the years. We do our best to keep an ongoing conversation with customers through our support staff, newsletter, blog, constantly updated What's New and Help sections within our software, and periodic one-on-one communications with customers.
